Computer Responsibility

CIVIL AIR PATROL Computer RESPONSIBILITIES AND PROCEDURES

CAPR 62-2 (E), 15 September 1999, is supplemented in Iowa Wing with the following directive.

The Iowa Wing and its subordinate units frequently have the use of computers with which to accomplish membership tasks. Due to incidents in other Wings involving unsuitable programs and content being placed on CAP computers, and being especially serious when our Cadets have access to those computers; and given the unwholesome nature of some of the content on the Internet, it is imperative that our members with access to CAP computers safeguard them from theft, damage, and being used to store improper content and programs. The undersigned therefore directs that all members who access CAP computers, or who use privately owned computers which are brought to CAP functions safeguard them from being stolen or damaged, or from being used for improper purposes where other CAP members may encounter said programs or content on said computers.
